Of Junior League

[illegible]

Against the brilliant setting of Old Spout Outhouse, Rensselaire, widely known Kingston, singing teacher and member of the Junior Rensselaire, who, like them, does a brilliant interpretation of the Rensselaire. Rensselaire's entrance song is in the key of the "Rensselaire" song in the same style.

The talented Miss Helen Sheridan, also a member of the Junior Rensselaire, will assist these Rensselaire with her masterful harp playing. Known for her many appearances in over the country as a concert harpist, this is the first opportunity in forty years local people have had to hear her.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 17 (AP)—The stock market showed no indication to venture from its narrow groove of recent trading in a quiet week-end session today.

The market firmed a little in the first hour today, and eased somewhat in the second hour, closing with irregular net changes, largely of unimportant, fractional proportions. The turnover approximated 400,000 shares.

There was an abatement of selling of U. S. Steel preferred, which has been a weak feature this week. That issue closed a scant fraction higher, while Steel common was off a meagre fraction. Coca Cola was a soft spot, dropping more than 2 points.

With the beer bill likely to come before the House of Representatives next week, floor traders evidently sold Coca Cola, and bought the bottling issues. Crown Cork and Seal, and Owens Illinois Glass rose about a point.

Some of the rails sagged fractionally.

Local Death Record

Jessie Condit Nease Straight, widow of Russell James Straight, died in Goshen, N. Y., December 15. Funeral services will be held in St. James Church, Goshen, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in Bradford, Pa.

George Edward Smith of 162 Washington avenue, died Friday. Funeral at the chapel of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Katrine Cemetery. Mr. Smith formerly resided in Flatbush. He is survived by two daughters, Mabel E. and Nellie A., both of Kingston, and a son, Walter B., of New York city.

Catherine Recktenwald Michaels, wife of Edward Michaels, died suddenly December 16. Funeral from the late residence, 332 Eighth avenue, New York city, Monday at 9:30 a. m., with a requiem Mass at the Church of St. Columba at 10 o'clock. Besides her husband she leaves the following children: Edward, Jr., Alexander, Eva and Jessie Michaels, Mrs. Elizabeth Reilly, Mrs. Madeline Booth, Mrs. Minnie Lorenzo, Mrs. Mary Malley.

The remains of Miss Cornelia Freidell, who died in Brooklyn, were brought to this city yesterday afternoon and taken to Bloomington for interment in the family plot. She was born in Edenville, the daughter of the late Conrad and Phoebe Freidell, and leaves one sister, Mrs. Anna Starkey, and four brothers, Harry, Eugene, George and Grant Freidell. The Rev. C. V. W. Bedford, pastor of the Bloomington Reformed Church, conducted the services.

Mrs. Theresa Ragan Manion, wife of Patrick Manion, died at the family home at East Kingston this morning after a brief illness. Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Daniel Dougherty of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Mary O'Brien and Mrs. Margaret Fay, and a brother, Patrick Ragan, all of East Kingston. Funeral services from the home of the daughter, Mrs. Dougherty, 73 West Pierpont street, on Tuesday morning at 9:15 o'clock and from St. Colman's Church at East Kingston at 10 o'clock where a requiem Mass will be celebrated for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, this city.

The Rev. Ellsworth W. Decker, minister of the Westwood, N. J., Reformed Church, died there Wednesday night at his home, 115 Fairview avenue. He was 59 years old. Mr. Decker, who would have been connected with the Westwood church 25 years next September, was director of the Sudan Interior Mission. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Estella A. Decker, and one daughter, Mrs. Frank T. Demarest, of Glen Rock, N. J. Mr. Decker was a native of Ulster county and before entering the ministry, having been supervisor of the town of Gardiner in 1902 and 1903. He was well-known in this city and county and highly respected.

Mrs. Jennie Fowler, 50, died at her home in Highland Thursday night, following a week's illness with pneumonia. Mrs. Fowler was born in Ulster county and had resided in Highland practically all of her life. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. H. S. Macker, Mrs. R. C. Whitaker, and Mrs. Daniel Neuman of Poughkeepsie; four sons, George, Charles, Ber and Henry of Highland; one brother, Louis Berrian of Poughkeepsie; and a sister, Mrs. Charles Osterhout of Brooklyn. Funeral services will be conducted at the home at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon with the Rev. Herbert Killinger, pastor of the Methodist Church of which Mrs. Fowler was a member, officiating. Burial will be in the family plot in the Highland cemetery. Bearers will be Henry Erickson, Charles Stahl, Charles Whitaker and Edward Tubbs.

William Doyle, Sr., died at his home in Poughkeepsie on December 15, aged nearly 81 years. He is survived by two sons, John and William, Jr., and a brother, Patrick Doyle, all of Saugerties. Funeral services were held today with interment in Mountain View Cemetery. For years deceased had been a widely known resident of Saugerties. He started in business life in Saugerties when a young man with a horse and cart and his trucking business gradually grew until he had 50 horses, trucks and wagons and employed a large number of men. He also owned several properties in Saugerties. For a time he engaged in state road building. He was noted for his kindness to children and annually he gave all the children of the village a sleighride to the former Red House on the Saugerties road. He also held a picnic each year for the children and took them many times for an excursion on the river.

ally, notably Santa Fe and Union Pacific. The weekly freight car loadings report showed a decline of 26,245 cars from the previous week, which was about in line with advance estimates. The total was 15 per cent under the like week of 1931, a wider divergence than in the previous week, which was 13.9 per cent under 1931 most of the carrier lines, however, were about steady.

American Telephone firmed in the late trading, closing with a gain of a major fraction. Westinghouse, Allied Chemical and Dupont were fractionally lower.

A better tone in wheat, in the earlier trading, after yesterday's setback, may have helped stocks. Cotton, however, was a bright spot in commodities, closing 70 to 85 cents a bale higher.

In foreign exchange, sterling cables ruled 1/4 of a cent higher at $3.31 1/4, while the French franc held about steady. The Canadian dollar rose 1-15 cent to 17-15 cents. The Dutch guilder sagged slightly.

TS HOSPITAL TO HAVE OUTDOOR TREES

Through the added generosity of Mr. Garbarino, the patients at the Tuberculosis Hospital, and incidentally all in the city who are in line of vision with the hospital on Golden Hill, will have the Christmas tree, which will be set up in front of the main entrance to the hospital and may be seen from the West Shore Railroad crossing.

The Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation has generously offered to wire the tree and bulbs for the lights will be with equal generosity, loaned by the Universal Lighting Company of this city.

Veteran Motorman Died Here Tuesday

Everett S. Hewitt, Long a Familiar Figure on the Front End of Kingston's Trolley Cars Until They Passed Into History.

Everett S. Hewitt of 36 Washington avenue, died early this morning after a long illness. His death marks the passing of one of the old time motormen employed on the trolley cars in Kingston before they were replaced by the present bus system. Although Mr. Hewitt retired from service as a motorman in January of 1917, because of ill health, he never lost his interest in the trolley road. During the seven years, after retiring that he resided on Clinton avenue he spent many happy hours on the porch of his home visiting with his former co-workers and watching the trolley cars pass his door.

When but a youth he and his father transported lumber, hides and dairy products from Delaware county to the Rondout creek docks. The return trip, on the third day, found their wagon loaded with merchandise to be delivered at stores in Delaware county.

After the Elster & Delaware railroad was built he came to Kingston and was employed by Sahler & Reynolds, but the lure of driving one of the old horse cars proved too much for him and he entered the employ of the late S. D. Coykendall with whom he remained until the trolley line changed hands. During that period Mr. Hewitt's ability was recognized by Mr. Coykendall who appointed him superintendent of the road. He held that position until the road was electrified and trolley cars succeeded horse cars. He became motorman on the trolley cars, and later acted as instructor to new employees.

Mr. Hewitt was one of the most skillful motormen who ever stood on the front platform of a local trolley car. He was a man whose genial good nature and cheery smile endeared him to all who knew him. Funeral and interment will be private. Friends may call at the late residence on Washington avenue on Sunday evening between the hours of 7 and 9 o'clock.

Large Audience Enjoyed Concert

The Fair Street Reformed Church was filled on Friday evening with music lovers of the city, gathered to hear the concert given under the auspices of the Men's Club of the church, by Prof. Elmer A. Tidmarsh, organist; Raoul Nadeau, baritone soloist; Mrs. Nadeau, accompanist; and the Union College Glee Club of Schenectady.

N. Levan Haver, for the club, stated that while there was a question as to just what America needs most today, the Men's Club of the Reformed Church was of the opinion that America and Kingston both needed good music and more of it. So when it was decided that the club should give a program of some sort, they at once decided to give the people the pleasure of a concert by organist and choral conductor, Mr. Tidmarsh, Mr. Nadeau and glee club. He thanked the audience for their splendid support of their effort to bring an artistic program to Kingston.

Both Mr. Tidmarsh and Mr. Nadeau were given an ovation by their audience and the glee club was repeatedly encored, especially when Ralph C. Knight of the glee club and composer of "The Dutchman's Song" led the club.

The program was as follows: Fantasia and Fugue in A Minor. Bach.

Elmer A. Tidmarsh. Dr. C. H. Perry. Steal Away. Fred H. Huntley. (Negro Spiritual).

It is the Lord's Own Day. Conradin Kreutzer. The Glee Club. Encore, the oldest Noel. "Sing Noel." Der Neugierige. Schubert. Le Nègre. Ferrari.

Mrs. Nadeau at the piano. The Trumpet Shall Sound (From Messiah). Handel.

Encore. Raoul Nadeau. Organ. Tales from the "Arabian Nights." Stoughton.

a. The Fisherman and the Gentle. b. Juvenier of the Sea. c. All Baba and the Forty Thieves. Elmer A. Tidmarsh.

Encore—Liebestraume. Liszt. (By Request).

To the Sea. A. Walter Kramer. Home on the Range, arranged by Tidmarsh.

(Incidental Solo by Raoul Nadeau.) The Dutchman's Song. Ralph C. Knight.

Encore—The Terrace Song of Union College. The Trumpeter. J. A. Dix.

Have You Seen but a Whirligig Little Grow. Anonymous. Anna-Zucca. Love Life. Mena-Zucca.

Encore—When I Think Upon the Maidens. Improvisation on "Holy Night." Elmer Tidmarsh.

Toccata from the "Fifth Symphony." Widor.

Elmer A. Tidmarsh. In response to the enthusiastic and continuing applause at the end of the concert, Mr. Tidmarsh told the audience how much the glee club, Mr. and Mrs. Nadeau and himself enjoyed giving the concert to such an inspiring audience. They had been graciously entertained at dinner previous to the concert and altogether had had a most enjoyable evening. They thanked their audience for it all.

Mid-Hudson Egg Auction Review

During the week slightly over 400 cases of eggs were sold on the Mid-Hudson Egg Auction in Poughkeepsie. This is the highest volume sold to date. The prices were firm. The better grades and uniform packs brought higher prices. The following is a summary of wholesale prices per dozen received by producers for the various grades offered:

White Eggs
N. Y. Fancy Large—36 1/2 to 38 1/2 cents; N. Y. Grade A, Large—34 1/2 to 35 1/4; Producers' Grade Large—26 to 32.

N. Y. Fancy Mediums—30 to 34 cents; N. Y. Grade A, Mediums—29 to 33 1/4; Producers' Grade Mediums—22 1/2 to 26.

N. Y. Fancy Pullets—27 1/2 to 29 1/2; N. Y. Grade A Pullets—26 1/2 to 29.

Pewees—23 1/2 to 25 1/4.

Brown Eggs
Grade A, Large—34 to 36 1/4; Grade A, Mediums—29 to 33; Grade A Pullets—26 to 27 1/4.

Albert Kurt, manager of the Farm Bureau, calls attention to the fact that there is a spread of from four to ten cents per dozen between the Fancy Grade and Producer's Grade in some classes. The only practical difference between the method of handling the eggs on the farm.

CHARACTERS IN PLAY AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH SUNDAY.

On Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, in place of the regular vesper service, the young people of the church school and the choir will give a miracle play entitled "Why the Chimes Rang." The characters in the order of their appearance will be:

The costumes have been in charge of Mrs. Helen Bradburn and the music will be in charge of Robert Williams, organist and choir master. The public is cordially invited to attend this pre-Christmas program.

Agents Report One Arrest
The Kingston prohibition office reports one arrest for Friday, that of John Simons of Windgate, who is charged with possession and sale of alleged beer. He was held for arraignment before Commissioner Platt.

The Simple Life
"We've bought a cooperative apartment. There are six families in the building. You pay $17.00, then you live there free for the rest of your life. It's a great saving. Junior? Taxes? Running expense? John didn't mention them, but he did say if anything comes up, all we have to do is to call a meeting of the six families and agree. It's very simple."—Kansas City Star.

Hard to Tell

By MARY MARSH

IT HAD been a dull executives' meeting, Mr. Stewart, the president of the concern, was going to Europe, and Mr. Stone, of the Chicago office, was coming to take his place at the New York office. The meeting had been called to make final arrangements—arrangements which it seemed to Rodney could have been made as well without his presence.

But when the six other executives were making their departure from Mr. Stewart's office, Mr. Stewart stopped Rodney, placed a fatherly hand on the young man's shoulder and asked him to wait.

"There is something I want you to do—something simple, but very important," began Mr. Stewart. "I have the greatest respect for Mr. Stone and know that his coming here may be fraught with many inconveniences and anxieties. Now," Mr. Stewart hesitated and then plunged ahead. "It's about Miss Drew. It would be a trifle difficult for me, you see. She's an excellent young woman, and invaluable. Miss Drew knows so much about the business, we couldn't possibly have her go. She is to be Mr. Stone's secretary. I'm used to her, but Miss Drew is, well, rather—"

"Yes," agreed Blaine, calling to view the snapping black eyes and vigorous, waving black hair of Mr. Stewart's secretary. "She is a trifle."

"Quite so. I don't mind it now. Though I must confess she rather upset me at first. And of course, if she becomes really annoyed at anyone I imagine that she would be a real tartar."

"Just suggest that as Mr. Stone is a stranger, she might treat him with gentleness. We decided before you got to the meeting that some one would better suggest this to her, and for reasons we decided that you would best be able to do it."

This was the hardest assignment that Blaine had ever had in his association with Mr. Stewart. Rodney had never taken much notice of her before, but now he deliberately studied her face and her carriage when she was not looking. He had made up his mind that the only way to go about it was to become friendly with her, to get her confidence and then to make an honest breast of the matter. He was unsuccessful in the usual wedge of an invitation to luncheon, so he sought to make the acquaintances of those who knew Miss Drew socially.

He would meet her after working hours and thus show his friendliness. Meantime Mr. Stewart had called and Mr. Stone had come to take his place. Mr. Stone, who proved to be a blond young giant who accomplished twice as much as Mr. Stewart. Something, possibly the long hours and the strenuous business methods of Mr. Stone, very decidedly softened the edge of Miss Drew's sharp temper. Her dark eyes snapped less fire now and the wavy black hair that seemed to typify her high-spirited nature seemed to wave more softly to her face.

Three months had passed and it was the eve of Mr. Stewart's return. Rodney Blaine had done his best. He had never fallen down on an assignment before, and he had not had his little talk with Miss Drew simply because she had never given him an opportunity.

Rodney was the first of the firm to see Mr. Stewart after his return home, and after a very brief discussion of business interests, Mr. Stewart brought up the subject that was apparently uppermost in his mind. "Were you successful in giving Miss Drew her little tip off?"

"Not exactly," began Rodney. "Heaven's man," interrupted Mr. Stewart, "you don't mean you let her boss Stone around the way she has been bossing me. Don't explain. I was afraid you wouldn't tell her. Of course, Stone wouldn't stand for her tongue—and now she's left. I'm sorry you let this happen. Miss Drew was, without question, one of my greatest business assets."

"But she hasn't left," Blaine explained. Then they were interrupted by the overtowering Mr. Stone, and Rodney Blaine was glad to withdraw. Mr. Stone waived all discussion of business.

"There is something I want to ask you," he said. "I didn't want to write it. But a good share of my happiness depends on the answer you give. Is Rodney Blaine serious in his regards for Miss Drew? He seems to follow her about, always seems to be trying to tell her something. I am more than interested in the girl myself. Frankly, I'd ask her to marry me."

"Marry you?" gasped Stewart, making in his chair. "Marry a girl with a temper like that?"

"The best tempered girl in the world," interrupted Mr. Stone. "The point is this: I am a newcomer. I have no right cutting Blaine out if he really loves the girl. But what I'm asking you is whether Blaine is in love with her. Why does he dog her around so?"

"I guess I told him to," said Stewart weakly. "But it's all right. He doesn't love her. I'm sorry to have you take her away, but—"

Mr. Stewart never finished the sentence for Mr. Stone had hurried late Miss Drew's office to deliver the words of a long-postponed proposal, which did not come as a surprise and that did not wait long for an answer.

Schubert Choral Club Sing Sunday

One of the most delightful concerts of the winter is the Christmas Vesper Hour given by the members of the Schubert Choral Club of the Y. W. C. A., open to the public without charge. The concert will be given this year on Sunday, December 18, at 3:30 in the lounge of the Governor Clinton Hotel and a beautiful program has been prepared, featuring numbers by the club as well as solo numbers. The soloists who will be heard in connection with choral numbers by the club will be Miss Gladys Hopper, Miss Florence Wheeler, Miss Gertrude Depew, Miss Margaret Smith, Mrs. Floyd Rich, Miss Ethel Schlothe and Miss Lydia Dornseiff. A special number, "In a Manger, Lowly," by Michael W. Daniels will be sung by Mrs. R. E. Gross, and a duet "Gesu Bambino"—Pietro A. Yon will be given by Mrs. Jessie Cowley Wolfenstern and Miss Ruth Neal. A particularly lovely selection by the club will be an Austrian Folk Song arranged by Dickinson, entitled "The Shepherd's Christmas Song." Miss Virginia Lus Kamp of New York city is the conductor of the club and Miss Edna Merrihew is the club accompanist. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the service.

LITTLE FLOWER SERVICES SHORTENED SUNDAY

The children of the Holy Name Church Sunday school and those of the Sacred Heart Church at Eddyville will give their annual Christmas entertainment tomorrow afternoon in Wilbur at 2 o'clock.

There will be no admission fee or collection and all are invited.

As the entertainment may encroach on the time of the devotions in honor of the Little Flower, these will be shortened accordingly.

Benediction immediately after the children's entertainment.

Old Sweethearts Meet Again, Both Are Blind

Perth, Australia.—Many years ago whenever young Charles Sparkes went to a dance he looked for a girl named Annie, a pretty, graceful girl with whom he preferred to dance. Then he joined the gold rush to the West. Never again was he to see Annie, for one day a piece of flying quartz struck him in the eye and destroyed his sight.

Not long ago Charles Sparkes, old and blind, was sitting in the Braille society's home, in Perth, western Australia. A woman joined him. She too, was blind.

They talked. She told him of the days when she was a light-hearted girl 30 years ago. She told him of the dances she had been to and of a young man she always danced with there.

"His name," she said, "was Charles Sparkes."

They met often now. Then cannot see white hairs and wrinkles. To each the other is young and handsome—gay, dashing Charles Sparkes and beautiful, graceful Annie.

Church to Feature Music of Centuries

"Hymns of the Centuries" is the theme for a choral service of vespers Sunday at 5 o'clock in the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church. The hymns and melodies will illustrate the contributions to worship today of each century from the first to the 20th, with special emphasis upon Advent and Christmas music. There will be no sermon.

Those taking part will be Miss Edna Merrihew, organist, the vested junior choir, the congregation, and Raymond DuBois and Dr. Goodrich Gates, minister, as soloists. The organ prelude will be Greg's "Ave Maria Stella." The verses, a product of pre-Christian times, are a R. E. Gross, and a duet "Gesu Bambino"—Pietro A. Yon will be given by Mrs. Jessie Cowley Wolfenstern and Miss Ruth Neal. A particularly lovely selection by the club will be an Austrian Folk Song arranged by Dickinson, entitled "The Shepherd's Christmas Song." Miss Virginia Lus Kamp of New York city is the conductor of the club and Miss Edna Merrihew is the club accompanist. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the service.

Other Christmas numbers will be: "O Come Immanuel," 12th century words and 13th century music, sung by Dr. Gates as a solo; "All Praise to Thee," 16th century; organ meditation, "Voller Wunder," 17th century; "Christians Awake," 18th century words and music and "Calm on the Listening Ear of Night," a hymn of the 19th century. Mr. DuBois will sing a baritone solo, "My Soul is Aflame" by Stickles and the choir will interpret an anthem, Smart's paraphrase of the Twenty-Third Psalm. These two numbers will show the influence of the ancient Jewish temple ritual on Christian worship.

Prayers used in the service will be historic ones and, like the hymns, will be arranged in chronological order. They will be selected from prayers of the first, fifth, 16th and 20th centuries which have been preserved and steadily used in the church. The recessional hymn will be a product of the 20th century, "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life." A postlude by Bach will conclude the worship.

Procrustes' Bed?
Procrustes, according to Greek legend, was a robber of Attica who made it a practice to place everybody he captured on an iron bed. If the victim was too long for the bed he cut off the superfluous part; if shorter he stretched the body to make it the required length. Theseus knew the legend. An attempt to reduce people to one standard, way of thinking or acting is known as placing them on the bed of Procrustes.

Oath of Pauperism
The pauper's oath is one which is permitted to persons undergoing bankruptcy, and in some other cases, whereby on the giving of a statement supported by oath that the person is without any available assets either personally owned or in expectation, he may be released from the payment of certain obligations and permitted to re-establish himself on a solid financial foundation free from debt.

To the Board of Education.

Gentlemen:
The medical department of our city schools is undertaking a valuable piece of work in the matter of testing the hearing of children. The State Medical Department has loaned a piece of apparatus (audiometer) so that these tests may be made scientifically and accurately. All children above the second grade have been given this test. Those showing an impairment of hearing have been referred to eliminate errors.

Parents of children showing a serious defect will be notified and request made that the child be examined by a competent doctor. It is hoped that clinics may be conducted by local specialists in case the parent is not financially able to undertake the expense and requests a clinic examination.

The impairment of hearing leads to inefficient work and retardation of pupils. Too often this apparent inattention and indifference leads to disciplinary problems also. It is expected that this work will in part at least, remove these difficulties.

During the term we have been fortunate in having visits from several inspectors from the Department of Education in Albany. The additions to the high school, the manual arts building, and the new part of School No. 6 were recently inspected by the School Buildings Division.

The following is quoted from the report of the director, J. H. Hixson: "I have just completed my reading of the inspection report submitted by Dr. Essex, assistant in this division, following his inspection of your new manual arts building, the addition to your high school building, and the addition to your No. 6 elementary school building. Dr. Essex reports the buildings were found to have been completed in a satisfactory manner and that they merit our approval."

Miss Kauffman, supervisor of the homemaker department, was here on October 25 and 26, and this is quoted from her report:

"It was a pleasure for me to visit the homemaker department in the Kingston High School, and also the work that you are doing in homemaker in the evening and part time schools. I felt that these departments were accomplishing a great deal of good for the girls enrolled, and the teachers were planning their work in a functioning way. I am enclosing some recommendations which I hope will be helpful in developing the work further in the departments."

In a report made by Dr. Wilson of the Vocational Education Division, commendation was made, and particularly in reference to the work undertaken in the machine shop. Suggestions were made in regard to vocational guidance and the study of educational and occupational opportunities.

Our dental clinic was recently inspected by the Department of Social Welfare of the state. The following are portions selected from the report.

"Quarters for the dental dispensary are on the second floor of a building located near the city fire house. Rooms consist of a waiting room and office of dentist in charge, of clinic, as well as a lavatory for the use of those attending clinic. Ventilation and cleanliness were good. Light throughout was satisfactory."

The school nurses give up one day a week at the dispensary to help the dentist since the city of Kingston has made no appropriation for dental hygienist. Patients are recruited from the public schools of the city and are generally within the age limits of six to fourteen. Each nurse in attendance is responsible for those children attending clinic on her day at the dispensary.

School nurses are said to know the children in their own schools so well that no investigation and report of visit to home is necessary. With those cases which are questionable, nurse is said to confer with parents of child in need of treatment.

The work done is mainly extractions and fillings in those cases warranting such. Each piece of work done is recorded on individual card which is signed by the dentist. Only provision made for prophylaxis is the giving of tooth brushes to children in need of them in the public schools, and the discussion of dental hygiene by the school nurses.

The State Department always cooperates efficiently and practically. The reports on inspections are constructive and helpful.

Respectfully submitted,

B. C. VAN INGEN,
Superintendent of Schools,
Kingston, N. Y., December 16, 1932.

The Christmas Shopper Is Wool Gathering

New York—In this hectic Christmas season, one has a conviction that clothes rate rather low in interest—except with those who have forgotten all about them and are brought up short by the necessity of having the right thing for the right place, or with those who believe that the gift of something to wear is the ideal gift. So indeed it may be, but alas and alack, too often it is not—because of bad judgment usually.

It might be hilariously funny, for instance, to give a smart girl a wool muffler some years, and she might feel inclined to curse you roundly for it. Not this year though. A gift of a fur tippet might throw you into the gales of laughter when fur tippets were out of fashion—but not this year. The important thing, of course, is to know your latest fashion lesson—and, of course, your girl.

There's lingerie, for instance. Imagine suggesting the gift of wool nighties to the snooty young things who feel that chiffon is sufficient for their bedtime needs—yet an albatross nightie is ever so up-to-date and can be "perfectly adorable." One thinks first of wool this Christmas. It is used for everything from undies to hats, bags and what-nots.

We are all accustomed to salvaging little bits of dress material and running off to our milliner with it, and now we are snatching pieces of the same and running off to the bag-maker with it. If you have no bag-maker and do not feel equal to making your own bag, you're just not following the leader and that's a game stylists just dote on, as we all know.

Since there's still a craze for monograms, get the pendant kind. Have them swing gaily from your bag, which is smart in felt. The chromium monograms are smart, if they are in large block letters, each swinging independently of the others. Bags themselves are swinging again, some of the newest having chains or self handles.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Blouses were one of the most important features of the Paris opening. One of the newest themes was at Ardanne, in the evening blouse. Tuck-in, these contrasted with dark skirt, being of metal or light colored crepe, and they were sleeveless and décolleté, straining strap or having suit style of décolleté at back.

Also of importance was a fairly general tendency to have the blouse neckline show over the jacket. This was done in various ways, but most often by finishing the blouse neckline in scarf style tied around the throat; sometimes the neckline of the blouse was merely cut higher than that of the jacket; Schiaparelli showed cotton crepe blouses with neckline like a glorified turtle-neck sweater.

When a new line of silhouette is suggested through a Vivonnet influence, it is in order to pay closest attention, since influences of this couturiere, in the past, have made blouse history.

The newest trend in Vivonnet's bodices, developed both in separate blouses and in bodices of entire frocks, shows the elbow length bell-shaped sleeve, cut in one with the body. It is reminiscent of the old "kimono" cut blouse, but in the present edition the advantage of 50 inch silks is recognizable in the apparently seamless construction.

It is a tuck-in type, suitable for formal or softly developed styles.

In upper left-hand corner, a fur set in which hands on crinkled crepe are the new note. In the group at lower left, a heavy crepe jacket with fringed shawl collar; a velvet cape banded with fitch but collared by a self-ruche and with a shirred yoke; a hoodlike drape on a short dolman wrap.

Nighttime events are gay these evenings with costumes topped by little jackets and wraps of great individuality. At the extreme left of the center group is a tiny double-breasted ermine with water collar and balloon sleeves. In the center, the tiny Victorian ermine capelet tied in a narrow scarf. Slightly to the back, at the right, one of the bellhop ermine jackets with interesting seamings.

The two jackets at the front right of the sketch are in velvet, one in clear light green with tiny perky ruffles at the waist. The other is black with over sleeves finished in black fox to match the cuffs of the undersleeves.

At extreme right, one of the models in a recent display of fur fashions was a horizontal tier blue fox capelet with a foundation wrap-around jacket of black satin.

A return to clothes or to small brimmed shapes, for early spring, prophesied by Paris milliners. The tendency promises for these brims to be mounted high on the crown of the head, but dipping over the eyes, and they will still be worn at a right dipping angle, showing more of the left side of the head, and turned up at back. Crowns will still be shallow.

First look at spring silk collections discloses that a large percentage of both printed and woven patterning is based on variations of crossbars, plaids, stripes and checks, the rating of popularity being in the order named.

The Debut of the Wrap With Big Sleeves

Water green crepe satin is used for the sleeves of the picturesque gown, at left, that proclaims the return of the feminine quality in lounging clothes, and the same pale green in velvet makes the rest of the garment.

Orchid pink cabosol makes a coat negligee that is graceful and flowing in line. It is mounted onto yoke and capelet sleeves of dull lace in large pattern, this lace making shallow yoke at front but descending to below the waist at back. Peach pink crepe is fashioned in a large floral pattern in self shade, to make a coat negligee softened by jabot collar.

The wrap at the left is made in black Lyons velvet with a collar of silver fox and sleeves which concentrate width between elbow and shoulder.

The built-in neckline added to the wide sleeve contributes interest in the furless three-quarter silhouette at the right. The model illustrated is in wine-colored Lyons velvet and is also available in metal cloth.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, Dec. 16—The West Shokan school children, also several of the local Kingston High School pupils, who are assisting, rehearsed late Wednesday afternoon for the Christmas Tree entertainment to be held Friday evening, December 23, in the schoolhouse. The program will consist of plays, dialogues, songs, recitations and duets. Everyone is invited to share in the evening's enjoyment.

This is the first in a number of years that this section has had a good slip of sleighing in mid-December. Coasting is much in vogue among the school children, with the schoolhouse hill, Philip Dwyer's hill and the boulevard hill at North Main street affording the most favorable courses. The icy under surface has caused very slippery traveling conditions for all users of the highways. The county snow plow, after scraping the west side boulevard late Monday afternoon transformed the surface into a straight-way skating course, as the slushy snow water quickly became ice in the freezing temperature.

The week's premier social event is the L. O. O. F. dance scheduled for Saturday evening in Olive Bridge Hall. Music will be furnished by Constable's Royal Delawares. The public is cordially invited.

Dr. Charles Quinn of Phenicia is a frequent professional caller in this community.

Troopers Ray Dunn and Joe Nolan, with headquarters in Phenicia, spent Wednesday night here while on patrol.

Virgil C. Gordon of Broadhead, popular Department of Water Supply foreman, was a local caller Wednesday evening.

Miss Marian Davis of West Shokan Heights is recovering from her recent very serious illness and is now able to sit up for a time daily.

The school children were happy to have Jane Snyder return to school on Wednesday, after a week's absence due to a bad cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whittier of Tuckaway Farm were recent callers on their nearby neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dwyer.

Mrs. Ole Burgher and daughter, Olive, of West Shokan Heights, went to Phenicia on the bus Wednesday afternoon for a consultation with Dr. Gross, the family physician.

The light snow, which fell Tuesday evening atop the crusted surface, produced an ideal snow for rabbit and fox tracking.

Charles Dunham, also Miss Gladys Van DeMark of Main street attended a social affair given Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Justus North in Shokan.

On Tuesday, December 20, Uncle Jake Crispell of Shokan, town of Olive's oldest resident and totally blind for some years past, will have reached his 90th birthday. It has been suggested that his many friends might remember him on the occasion with a shower of greeting cards which would unquestionably be much appreciated. Mr. Crispell is a descendant of Jan Crispell, the first white settler in this immediate locality who came up from Hurley in 1733 and located on the Cole farm of latter pre-reservoir years, situated about one mile south of the old village of Shokan along the road leading to Brown Station.

Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow called on his sick neighbors Thursday morning in West Shokan Heights.

Artist Bernard Dwyer, well known "Dwyer's Corner" resident, tied it over the slippery boulevard to Broadhead Wednesday evening, where he was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Baumer, proprietors of Pine Tree Cottage.

Chase Davis, veteran West Shokan Heights farmer, was taken down with grip Tuesday afternoon and is confined to the house.

Hardy Van Kleeck of Samserville

Heights has moved his household goods here and has taken up his residence for the winter with his former neighbor, Bill Gudman, now of North Main Street.

A meeting of the Home Bureau was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Weidner in Hickory Hill.

The Ladies' Aid Society held its usual all day weekly meeting on Wednesday in the church basement. A goodly percentage of the willing working members were present.

Miss Helen Lohr of Brooklyn is enjoying herself immensely during her week's stay here. She is a guest at the home of Judge and Mrs. Lester S. Davis of Main Street.

Mr. Reiser of Andes, state milk inspector, was over the route again checking up here Thursday in company with Jimmy Coddington of Pataquak. Farmers are not encouraged to attempt improvements in winter with milk prices scarcely above the cost of production.

Ernest Palen of Broadhead was engaged here Wednesday hauling out firewood with his team for John Henricksen of Main Street.

Olive Rebekah Lodge held its regular third Thursday of the month session on Thursday evening in Olive Bridge Hall. Reports are expected soon regarding the date and details of the proposed Joint Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Christmas party.

Mouse Traps

Mice are canny things and unless the trap is clean they will avoid it. After a mouse has been caught in the trap, the trap should be thoroughly scalded and dried and aired. Then all scent will be gone except the smell of the bait. If you do not care to go to all this trouble, use new traps for each mouse. Many women do not consider it an extravagance to throw away the trap with the mouse still in it.

Happiness

To enjoy happiness is a great good, but to be able to confer it also on others is a greater still.

+ International + Walther League

The Walther League Message for this month is just crammed full of interesting items and stories. All Leaguers should read this magazine and enjoy the benefits of good Christmas Journalism.

The Christmas Carolers will hold their regular rehearsal on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Carolers plan to make a visit to one of the institutions in the city on Friday evening, December 23.

Easy Cleaning

Perhaps the most satisfactory way of cleaning bronze is to first immerse the article to be cleaned in boiling water and then rub with a soft cloth dipped in yellow soap. Rub with a soft, dry cloth.

QUICK WAY TO BUILD UP

Go to your druggist, get a bottle of Bitter Tonic Tablets, the old Indian style of roots, herbs and bark. Gain back your pep, vim and vigor, or get your money back.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

C. S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FAVORS AID

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—A 12-point program, including changes in rate-making policies, easing of management restrictions, and fair regulation has been approved by business organizations in the Chamber of Commerce of the United States membership to put the nation's railroads on a sound basis.

The program which President Henry I. Harriman announced today had been approved by "an overwhelming vote," also calls for retroactive repeal of the recapture clause, the opening of water and highway transportation to the railroads on an equal basis, and the amendment of the long-and-short-haul clause to place responsibility of the railroads for determining whether proposed rates would be reasonably compensatory.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

John-John, John:

Bellefonte, Pa.—Six friends who felt they had been socially "snubbed" by Dr. Grover Cleveland Outch, a big game hunter, because he did not invite them to one of his venison dinners, sent him a note and told him about it. The doctor proceeded to make amends.

He invited them to a dinner. They ate heartily and then the doctor told them a little secret—that they had eaten, not venison, but equus caballus. In other words horse meat! He followed with real venison and those who were able to partake said it was good.

Sticky Bat Popular

Detroit—Capt. John Paffhausen has the last laugh on the boys at Highland Park police station who kidded him unmercifully because he vanished his bath room with maple syrup. He has a whole bale of fun mail to prove he's the most popular man in Highland Park.

The letters began pouring in as soon as news of his sticky error got out. From Tacoma, Wash., New York city and points in between they came. Only one from Fort Wayne, Ind., offered sympathy. It was from a man who once put varnish on his pancakes. A Kentucky woman, a "shut-in," said she wanted to thank the captain for a good laugh.

To Eat or Not to Eat

Bridgeport, Conn.—For the 13th time Edward Regan appeared as a defendant in city court. Judge William J. Buckley looked quizzically at a book under the prisoner's arm.

"It's a book on economics. I'm studying to find out if it's cheaper to stay in jail where it's warm or to be out on the streets without anything to eat."

Regan will study in jail for the next 30 days.

Thanks Santa

Gaffney, S. C.—The Board of Public Works played Santa Claus to users of electric current and water by announcing that all bills for December will be sent out marked "paid."

L. V. Gaffney, superintendent, said approximately 2,000 customers would save $6,000.

He Doesn't Miss

Mercer, Pa.—Deer hunting, costly for many farmers, is not expensive for Earl Nickum. He has brought home a buck each season for three years. During that time he purchased one box of rifle shells and he says he has plenty of ammunition left for future seasons.

Dizzy Dolings

Chicago—With the temperature below zero, Joseph Murnane, 27, decided to keep moving, so he walked and walked until he couldn't walk any more.

But he failed to get anywhere because all of his walking was done in a revolving door, inside of which police found him.

He's Becoming Impatient

Melville, N. J.—James Allen, motorist, knows how Job must have felt. His car skidded into Laurel Lake. He almost drowned before he broke a window and swam ashore. His clothes froze stiff before he was picked up and when he finally did get home a summons to face a charge of driving without a license awaited him.

DEATHS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

General John Pryor Hickman. Nashville, Tenn.—General John Pryor Hickman, 86, former adjutant and former commander of the Tennessee division, United Confederate War Veterans.

Judge Oren N. Hilton.

Ontario, Calif.—Judge Oren N. Hilton, 83, former associate justice of the Michigan supreme court and editor of the tenth edition of Wharton's "Criminal Justice."

George E. Careless.

Salt Lake City—George E. Careless, 93, for many years leader of the Mormon Tabernacle choir and composer of the religious music of the Latter Day Saints Church.

Miss Rebecca Hoffman.

Bellaire, O.—Miss Rebecca Hoffman, 93, a cousin of General Custer, the Indian fighter.

ROCHESTER CENTER

Rochester Center, Dec. 17—Walter Van Gasbeck is working for Ivan Chrysler in Patankunk.

Mrs. Elliott Allen and her daughter, Gloria, went to Ossining this week on business.

Austin Quick is drawing logs this week to Leroy Van Gasbeck's mill. Spencer Quick called on John Newman this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chrysler and Betty Jean had supper with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Chrysler, Wednesday evening.

It is expected that there will be a turnover in real estate in this locality soon.

Glenford Quick, Lloyd Embree, Russell and Harry Chrysler spent Wednesday evening with Leroy Van Gasbeck and family.

Those who have been sick in this neighborhood are improving, all are glad to say.

Due to stormy weather and sickness the attendance records are very poor this week in Rochester Center school. There will be a rehearsal for the Christmas program in Lehighville, M. E. Church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with the Lehighville school.

Mrs. Eli Crawford, Robert Osterhoudt and Alberta went to Kingston Thursday to see Santa Claus and do some Christmas shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Chrysler and Eula were calling in this neighborhood this week.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Afraid to Talk." A frank and brutal expose of police methods, and the crookedness behind the arm of the law with Eric Linden, Sidney Fox, and Frank Sheridan. Eric Linden gives his most dramatic characterization in the role of a bell hop who witnessed a murder, who has to take the blame, and who finally is beaten into confessing a crime he didn't do, by the strong arm men of the law. This picture packs a wallop, with a plot supposedly based on fact. The acting is excellent, and this show is recommended to those who like frankness in their pictures.

Orpheum: "So Big" and "Hell's Headquarters." The first, from the famous novel of Edna Ferber, is a story of American womanhood, starring Barbara Stanwyck. "Hell's Headquarters" is a melodrama with Jack Mulhall and Barbara Weeks.

Broadway: "Hidden Gold." Old and young will enjoy this latest western effort of Tom Mix. It's a fast-paced yarn in which Mix is wrongly accused of robbery, and there is action every moment. A forest fire lends added excitement to the story. Judith Barrie and Tony, Tom's faithful horse, have featured roles in the picture.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same.
Orpheum: "East is West" and "The Reckless Rider." Law Ayres, Lupe Velez, and Edward G. Robinson are featured players in the first talkie, a story of the distinction in races. "The Reckless Rider" gives Lane Chandler an opportunity to thrill the kiddies with gunplay and fast riding. The final and deciding chapter of "Air Mail Mystery" is also being shown at this performance.
Broadway: "West of Broadway." John Gilbert as a war veteran with six months to live, works hard in this talkie that tries to be excitingly dramatic from the opening scene. Madge Evans and El Brendel are also in the cast.

Spider Crab's Protection

The spider crab shows its body to be coated over with ocean oush in which words and other marine growths thrive. These help the crab to blend with its surroundings and thus not only serve as a protection against enemies, but enable it to stand upon its prey unnoticed or be in wait without being seen.

New Chevrolet Appears Today

Today Chevrolet presents larger and greatly refined new 1933 cars at dealers' showrooms throughout the nation. The Colonial City Chevrolet, Kingston distributors, are showing the new car at the showrooms, Broadway at Maiden Lane, where the public is invited to inspect this new job.

Longer wheelbase, new "aer-stream" styling, more power and speed coupled with greater economy, larger and lower Fischer bodies with new Fischer "no-draft" ventilation, shatterproof glass in windshield and ventilators, cushion-balanced motor mounting, improved free wheeling plus synchro-mesh transmission with silent second gear, and a "starter" for simplified starting are all listed as new standard features included in the list price.

Prices announced last night from Detroit range upward from a base of $485.00 f. o. b. Flint, bringing the new series into the lowest range which Chevrolets has ever sold.

While retaining the six cylinder motor in all its fundamentals, Chevrolet engineers list many major developments of minor refinements in the 1933 models making most radical changes and improvements since the first Chevrolet six in 1928.

Wheelbase has been extended to 110 inches. The engine, which operates more economically than the 1932 power plant has been stepped up in horsepower to 45 mainly through lengthening the stroke, offering a present displacement of 266.3 cubic inches and delivering a top speed well over 70 miles an hour.

In appearance the car differs radically from any previous Chevrolet model, the "aer-stream" styling representing a medium between conventional streamline and modified "teardrop" design. The motif of the new leaning V-type radiator is carried through slanting hood doors and sharply slanting windshield pillars to the rear end, where an extension of the rear body panel sweeps outward and downward, screening the gas tank and the axle and under carriage of the car.

With an eye to making driving as nearly automatic as possible, several "gadgets" have been eliminated, thus adding greatly to the convenience and safety of driving.

A manual spark control has been eliminated in favor of a two-way automatic control. The heat control button has also been replaced by an automatic control, operated by thermostat. Another important new device for further economy is the addition of an octane selector, added because various types of gasoline differ widely in octane content. The new device enables the driver to get the highest possible efficiency out of all grades of gasoline.

Outstanding among new features is the "cushion-balanced" motor mounting, or "sta-namic balancer." The latter name comes from the fact that the new mountings effectively dampen out all vibrations set up by both static and dynamic residual forces. The old extreme was to clamp down the motor directly to the frame and the metal metal contact communicated engine vibration to the driver. The more recent extreme has been to suspend the engine in very soft rubber which permitted the engine to "bob" about freely.

An important new engineering feature is the Chevrolet sub frame. The new engine rests entirely on this sub frame, with four points of support, and the whole of its weight is carried on two lateral supports, so located that the motor is balanced on its center of gravity. The method anchors the motor to the frame at its point of minimum movement.

The new free wheeling control button remains on the left of the instrument panel, within easy reach of the driver. The instrument board is finished in attractive simulated mahogany.

Weight of the crankshaft has been increased 10 pounds to 63 1/2 pounds, and has improved counter weights and a heavier harmonic balancer. Design of the fly wheel has been changed and its method of attachment to the crankshaft improved, beside being machined to closer limits.

In line with increased performance of the engine, both front and rear brakes have been re-designed and enlarged to provide increased deceleration. Brake drums are now 12 inches in diameter.

The 1933 frame is entirely new. It is lengthened to accommodate the increased wheelbase and body length and all cross members and brackets are redesigned and relocated accordingly. Side frame members are much stronger and the sub-frame in addition.

tion to providing a motor support greatly increases the strength and rigidity of the frame. Front axles are stronger and heavier. Rigidity of the rear axle shaft is increased by the use of double taper construction. Its wheelhub is now forged integral at the outer end.

The clutch has been improved and refined to transmit the increased torque of the more powerful engine. The transmission is now helical constant mesh type, exceptionally quiet in operation, particularly in second gear.

The fuel system has been redesigned with a fourteen gallon tank at the rear and an electric gauge.

An inspection of the new models which went on display this morning at the local show rooms is invited.

THE LIFELESS ARM

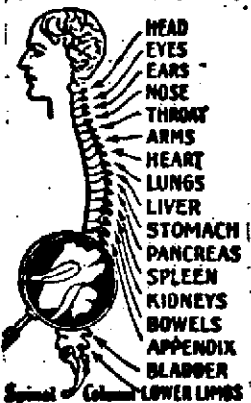

Not always are the effects of an accident visible, nor is their development immediate. That this is true is well illustrated by the case of Mr. Jsarlewitz. Knocked from a bicycle in a collision with an auto, it was apparent that his arm was broken. What was not apparent, but which was learned many months later, was the fact that the jar of the accident had caused an injury, at the spine, of one of the nerves leading to the broken arm.

When the broken bone had mended, the arm remained useless, in spite of regular, continued electric treatment and massage, intended to restore life to it. It was only when he had the scientific services of a Chiropractor, who released the nerve pressure and nerve congestion (at the spine) of the nerve to the arm, that Mr. Jsarlewitz recovered use of his arm. The experience of this man is just another proof that Chiropractic Gets Results!

"My arm broken as the result of a fall from bicycle when an auto ran into me, was set at the Hospital. After removal of the cast, I received daily electrical treatments and massage for eight or nine months, but the arm remained useless. I heard of Chiropractic and decided to investigate. Nine months of medical treatment failed, but after only 12 days of Chiropractic treatments, I have a useful arm and can return to work.—Meyer Jsarlewitz, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 2105-K.
